DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on Dec. 9, 2009 has been entered.

Status of the Claims

Claims 29-36, 39, 40 are currently pending. Claims 31-34, 36 are withdrawn from further consideration.

Claims 29, 30, 35, 39, 40 are presented for examination on the merits.

Benefit of priority is to 5/5/2000.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 29, 30, 35, 39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by London (1995).

Therefore, London teaches a device for detecting, measuring or monitoring cholinesterase in blood sample comprising a cartridge (read as kit) with plurality of substrates (page 59, left column, 2nd full paragraph, lines 1-3; a detector for detecting reaction rates (colorimeter, page 59, left column, 2nd full paragraph, line 5); software for calculating protein concentration (page 59,

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 29, 40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the combination of London and Jacobs (1993).

London's teachings anticipate claims 29 as above.

London does not teach cartridge triggers device automation when inserted.

Jacobs teaches a blood analyzer with an insertable cartridge (page 1891, left column, 1st full paragraph).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify/automate the device of London by using a insertable cartridge to trigger the automation of the device (Claim 40) because Jacobs teaches a cartridge that can be inserted in the device. One would have been motivated to automate the device because Jacobs et al. specifically described a cartridge in a blood analyzer and one of ordinary skill in the art has good reason to automate the device by trigger the automation by inserting the cartridge for anticipated success in view of Jacob's teaching of an insertable cartridge for a blood analyzer.

Art Unit: 1657

From the teachings of the references, it is apparent that one of ordinary skill in the art would have had a reasonable expectation of success in producing the claimed invention. Therefore, the invention as a whole was prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, as evidenced by the references, especially in the absence of evidence to the contrary.

Conclusion

No claim is allowed.

Any inquiry concerning rejections or objections in this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Bin Shen, whose telephone number is (571) 272-9040.
